

SHANGHAI DAILY

1.5 YUAN

上海日报 国内统一刊号 CN31-0004 邮

Editorial

Tel: (8621) 52920884

Fax: (8621) 52921365

Advertising

Tel: (8621) 52920645

Fax: (8621) 52921604

Distribution & Promotion

Tel: (8621) 52920043

Fax: (8621) 52921365

Special Projects

Tel: (8621) 52920869

Fax: (8621) 52920390

Tuesday 18 JUNE 2002

WHAT'S ON WHEN AND WHERE

Greeting from Canada

The Shanghai Symphony Orchestra will stage a concert under the baton of Canadian Marco Parisotto (right). He will be the first foreign conductor to conduct this local orchestra in its 150 year history. Wagner's "Overture to Tannhauser," Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole" and Rakhmaninov's "Symphonie Tanz" will be included in the performance.

Time: 7:30 p.m., June 22
Venue: Shanghai Concert Hall, 523 Yan'an Rd. E.
Tel: 6386-9153
Tickets: 20-100 yuan

Theater

Confusion, deceit and laughs: The play will be performed in Chinese by students from the Shanghai Theater Academy.
Time: 7:30 p.m., June 21-23
Venue: Shanghai Drama Arts Theater, 288 Anfu Rd.

Tel: 6473-0123, 6473-4567
Time: 7:15 p.m., through July 2
Venue: Shanghai Drama Arts Theater, 288 Anfu Rd.
Tel: 6473-0123, 6473-4567
Tickets: 80 yuan

listing@shanghaidaily.com.cn

Exhibition

'Duality of Denice'

The exhibition features artworks by French artist N. Denice. Her paintings are an interesting collage of images. The most striking thing is the marriage of meticulously drawn architectural fragments along side splashes of bright colors.

Time: 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., through June 18
Venue: Shanghai Art Museum, 325 Nanjing Rd. W.
Tel: 6327-2829

Public Vision

Time: 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., through June 20
Venue: Shanghai Art Museum, 325 Nanjing Rd. W.
Tel: 6327-4030

The Yanks Keep Winning

They needed a little luck to get out of the first round of the World Cup, but now the Americans are picking up steam with a win over Mexico.

Page 8